

Using Drama to teach in primary: A toolbox for the terrified.

Brief Overview:	These sessions are tailored to the primary practitioner who understands the power of using Drama to facilitate learning for learners, but lacks the confidence or 'know how' to make it focussed and effective. Using teachers as participants (being the class!), and with carefully selected techniques and methods that mean acting is not a prerequisite from all pupils, Kacey de Groot will model three different lesson formats, with a range of techniques and in three different subject areas. Sessions will look at using Drama in English, History, and PHSE focussed lessons. The Drama 'toolkit' explored across all three will be connected to empathy, creative and collaborative learning, and the connections to writing, reading, and oracy, in the different subject areas, will be signposted and highlighted.
Facilitators:	Name	School
	Kacey de Groot, Assistant Principal Leader of Learning	Caludon Castle School
Who is it suitable for:	New or experienced primary school teachers in KS2 who wish to develop their own, or their class' creative imagination.
What is the intended impact for you? What will you take away with you? e.g. resources, learning points etc.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A range of three lessons will be modelled that can be used in primary school teaching directly. All thematic material will connect directly to the curriculum. • A powerpoint containing the different Drama strategies and connections to their usage. • A practical experience of the sessions and techniques to understand how even 'role-play phobics' might still learn through Drama.
